

Rickson Gracie was always great, so much better than everybody. During any training session he would always humble you, and then he would kid with you: "Oh, my friend, please don't tell anyone how well you did against me today." Those were unforgettable days, training with him in his garage.

Excerpt from the book: The Gracie Way